& CULTURAL ARTS CENTER

SEE WHAT CUSTOMERS ARE SAYING ABOUT THEIR LYRIC EXPERIENCE

'We have enjoyed a wonderful relationship with the Lyric Theatre for 7 years. In that time over 60,000 have attended WoodSongs broadcast tapings on Monday evenings ... and thousands more have attended Troubadour Concerts. The staff has always been attentive, helpful, friendly to the audience and very accommodating to our productions. Plenty of parking, a wonderful neighborhood and one of the best sounding concert halls in the state.' – Michael Jonathan, WoodSongs Old-time Radio Hour

'An historical landmark of true cultural convergence. It's located in the rich East End of Lexington. Features include: Theatre, arts, music, lectures, activism, community outreach and figures of true lasting importance in the annals of Kentucky's vibrant milieu of historicity! A true must visit!' – Robert L, Patron

'We rented the courtyard and reception room. I can't say enough good things about the Lyric Theatre. The staff was very professional and helpful. While the wedding was to take place in the courtyard, about an hour prior to the ceremony, we decided to have it inside. The staff quickly got the chairs set up and ready to go. I loved working with Tim, he answered any and all questions, he made suggestions of where to have the ceremony in case of rain, he called me the day before to make sure they had everything covered for us. I highly recommend using the Lyric as a wedding venue!' – Terri S, Wedding Rental

'An asset to downtown Lexington. This theater is a living archive of Lexington's history. They are continuing a proud legacy and bringing the love of the arts to a new generation!' – Samantha M, Patron

'Held our wedding here. First off, what's not to love in that classic name? The building is authentic, historic Lexington. We mostly used the community room, but the dressing rooms were also very retro and classy. For the cost, it makes a very beautiful and affordable venue for most events!' – Harrison T, Wedding Rental

'The staff and volunteers could teach classes on customer service — every single person. I've ever encountered has been friendly and helpful. This is a great venue for meetings and weddings, and be sure to check out concerts there.' – Kevin H, Patron

'I stopped here while visiting on a business trip and received a great background of the historical significance of this facility. Any local Lexington residents should absolutely come see a movie, play, musical or other event to see this awesome facility and learn about its historical significance in Lexington.' - Adam W, Patron

'Went here to perform in a talent show and loved it so much I went back to watch a jazz concert. Friendly staff, clean facilities, historic location!' – Sierra H, Patron & Performer

'After years of partnering with the Lyric, we've come to know them as not only a wonderful gift to the community, but one of the best venues and gathering spaces in the city. The staff is excellent, the facilities are top-notch, and the history of the building itself makes the experience even more meaningful. If you're looking for the right space, this is it.' – Justin Rhorer, Restoration Church
